Progress of the Presidential Party.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 1.—To Lieutenant Governor Robertson at seven o'clock this morning belongs the honor of first greeting President Cleveland on Indiana soil. The only persons at the depot at that hour were a few railroad officials and a little crowd of a hundred or more which had gathered about the Pullman car in which the president was sleeping. The train was due at 7:30, but it was an hour late. Governor Gray, Lieutenant Governor Robertson, Colonel Lambert, Private Secretary Thompson, Congressman Owen, Mayor Denny and other prominent Democrats were on hand to welcome the president to Indiana. Governor Gray and Lieutenant Governor Robertson boarded the train at Columbus, but the rapid run to this city was made in such a manner that owing to the early hour it was impossible to converse with the party.

Indianapolis awoke at 5 o'clock this morning to find a drizzling rain falling, which continued until past four o'clock. The streets were very quiet, scarcely a soul being visible at that hour. Many people, however, were astir at the depots awaiting the arrival of the president. A reporter had been detailed by Colonel Lambert at Pittsburgh to telegraph to Congressman Owen, of this city, and Congressman Owen, of Columbus, the time of the train's arrival at the latter city, so that the people of this city would have ample time to assemble at the depot. Owing to the early hour at which the president arrived, the crowd was not as large as it would otherwise have been, but there were several thousand people present when the train pulled in. The weather was very unfavorable, a heavy rain falling during the greater part of the time the president was in the city. The crowd was not very demonstrative, but cheered heartily when the president appeared on the platform of the car. The party was met at the depot by Governor Gray, Lieutenant Governor Robertson, Mayor Denny, Colonel Lambert, Private Secretary Thompson, Congressman Owen, Colonel Dudley, Colonel Lamb, Colonel Bruce, Colonel Gilbert, Colonel Hendricks, Colonel Ryan, Colonel Gregg, Colonel Bowen, Colonel Ketcham, Colonel Hanna, Colonel Bobbs, Colonel Holliday, Colonel Kiplinger, Colonel Hall, Colonel Hawkins, Colonel Hill, Colonel Hyatt, Colonel Hyde, Colonel Jones, Colonel Kennedy, Colonel Kern, Colonel Lemcke, Colonel Lilly, Colonel Lockwood, Colonel Mason, Colonel Mayer, Colonel Mitchell, Colonel Morrison, Colonel Nelson, Colonel Nicholson, Colonel Pierce, Colonel Pratt, Colonel Rhodes, Colonel Rose, Colonel Sharpe, Colonel Shaw, Colonel Shirley, Colonel Smith, Colonel Stevenson, Colonel Stuart, Colonel Taylor, Colonel Thompson, Colonel Tinsley, Colonel Tuttle, Colonel Wallace, Colonel Wheeler, Colonel Wilson, Colonel Wood, Colonel Woollen, Colonel Wright, Colonel Yeoman, Colonel Zimmerman, Colonel Zollars, Colonel Zuppinger, Colonel Zwisler, Colonel Zwisler, Colonel Zwisler

By order of the committee.

FRANK W. [illegible], Chairman.
A. A. MCCLELLAND, Secretary.

The Denver News has a special from Washington and says that Mr. Blaine is [illegible] as a candidate. That is the fact, of the Democratic thought. If the democrats really thought Blaine a weak candidate they would magnify his strength, and not decry the it.

The author of "Maryland, My Maryland," suggests that on Charles Sumner's birthday every flag captured of the union soldiers by the rebels be returned. The sentiment is praiseworthy. The selection of the birthday of the man who introduced the resolution into congress to take from the flags of our army all names of battles fought in the civil war is extremely felicitous.

The republicans in New York declared in favor of local option and, while there was a resistment on the sale of liquor by [illegible] the democrats [illegible] liquor. The democratic party did not last week in New York [illegible] liquor. But the prohibition party still keeps its organization and thinks it is necessary to mature the republican party to help temperance. Everybody to the republican party to help on the democratic party. The [illegible] working men vote [illegible] said the scheme

The News of yesterday gave the democrats some very good advice. It [illegible] democratic ticket. It [illegible] tests against any [illegible] during the nominations. But [illegible] mistake in assuming that [illegible] wants to do this. There [illegible] unpleasness to the democratic party [illegible] must make your [illegible] in a manner [illegible] sport. But he does [illegible] nomination of any particular candidate as against every other. But [illegible] thing else [illegible] be a [illegible] party [illegible] for him, he does not [illegible] party as he does not [illegible] probably [illegible] over one of the two parties [illegible] the voice of the [illegible] it will be very unfair [illegible] party for defeating a candidate [illegible] as it was in 1884 up to the [illegible] Cleveland. It is very unkind to the political party [illegible] that it can of like [illegible] from those who work in the [illegible] from those whose character [illegible] respect and confidence. But [illegible] would be likely to [illegible] and any party is perfectly free [illegible] dictation and free [illegible]. The [illegible] getting under [illegible] that there is [illegible] grown larger every year, which is [illegible] indifferent to the politics of the [illegible] holds no other [illegible] to [illegible] and gladly.

The meeting of the Grand Army [illegible] Louisville, [illegible] is [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] Turpie has been [illegible] Grand Army [illegible] also to [illegible] which [illegible] tion that [illegible] be made at the meeting [illegible] The agitation of these [illegible] forward a good many [illegible] there was danger that [illegible] of this meeting might [illegible] town of the true soldier [illegible] the fears were grounded [illegible] who met at St. Louis were [illegible] the matter on the [illegible] deviation [illegible] to be were not followed. But the president came to St. Louis to [illegible] and would not have been [illegible] [illegible] respect and consideration which [illegible] offer and [illegible] to. The action of the Grand Army is of more than mere [illegible]
